Mt. Wilson Trail Monument Is Proposed

The erection of an historical monument at the beginning of Mt. Wilson Trail near the Mira Monte Reservoir is proposed by the Historical Society and Kiwanis Club.

The proposal was presented to the City Council Tuesday night in order to obtain a permit to erect the monument.

The Council is in favor of the project, but voted to see a design of the proposed structure before it is put up.

The idea for a monument grew from the work done by Col. Walter D. Thurber and a committee several months ago. The committee met several times, as a result of an editorial in The Sierra Madre News, and drafted a detailed report on ways to enhance the beauty and prestige of Sierra Madre.

Request for Charter Vote Is Tabled

The City Council Tuesday night tabled a resolution urging the County Board of Supervisors to place all proposed Charter Amendments on the November ballot for a "vote of the people."

The request was made by the city of Torrance, which took action recently.

One Sierra Madre councilman, Milton Emerson, said he thinks the people should be permitted to vote on the changes. The Council tabled the resolution, however, to permit further study. It's possible that action may be taken at a special Council meeting later this month.

PASADENA city directors voted unanimously Tuesday to have the changes placed on the ballot.

Charles Hamill, former Pasadena mayor, served as vice chairman of the citizens' group which recommended that:

1. The County Board of Supervisors be increased from 5 to 11.

2. The county manager system be modified to free supervisors for policy making duties only.

3. The offices of sheriff and assessor be made appointive rather than elective.

The only supervisor to favor placing the changes on the ballot is Warren M. Dorn, himself a former Pasadena mayor. The Board of Supervisors appointed the committee which made the recommendations.

County Valuation Set at $10 Billion

Total assessed valuation of Los Angeles County has been set by the State Board of Equalization at $10,480,253,890, it was announced yesterday.

Assessment of public utilities — which together with private property makes up the total assessment — was $937,783,190, an increase of 9.8 per cent from last year compared with a state-wide average boost of 9.4 per cent.

BIDS REJECTED

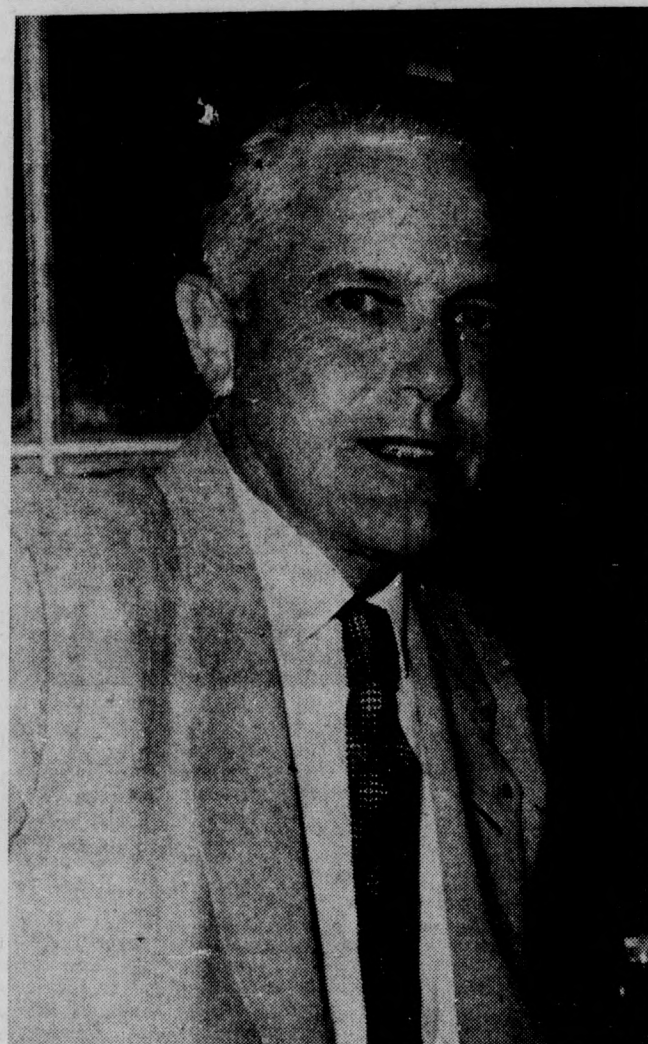

All bids for construction of the Mountain St. storm drain in Pasadena were rejected by county supervisors Tuesday on the grounds the prices were too high.

Board Names New School Administrator

Robert Walker Is Unanimous Choice

Robert E. Walker

Robert E. Walker, superintendent of Bonita Union School District for the past 12 years, was unanimously chosen superintendent of Sierra Madre schools at a meeting of the Board of Education Monday night.

Of the 38 candidates screened by the county schools office, the Sierra Madre Board interviewed five. Approximately 40 other candidates contacted Board members personally or by telephone.

Hugh Colvin, who presided in the absence of Board President Kenneth Bush, who is on vacation, said that at least one hour was spent in interviewing each of the five. Four of the five, incidentally, are superintendents of other school districts.

"One of the primary reasons we have a superintendent is to work on the curriculum,"

A CHECK on Walker was also made with members of his former Board of Education and he was highly recommended by them.

He was given a four-year contract at an annual salary of $11,000. He will start to work here officially Sept. 1, but plans to spend some time with the present superintendent, Dr. Lowell Jackson, before the latter leaves for his new post in Hawaii.

"The Board," Colvin said, "was faced with the problem of whether to appoint a temporary superintendent or a permanent one. In view of the problems in Sierra Madre, particularly the building of the additions to Sierra Mesa, we thought a permanent man should be selected as quickly as possible."

Walker, who described himself as an "eclectic" educator (one who takes the best from many systems), said:

"My philosophy of education is similar to Dr. Jackson's, so we won't have to do over anything that he has done. I think I understand what the Board wants and, with the aid of

Dr. Jackson leaves for Hawaii today by plane.

Library Gallery . . .

Complexity of Design Is Noel Quinn Specialty

By Frode N. Dann

Again there is an important water color show at the Sierra Madre Library gallery. Noel Quinn, as James Cooper Wright, is a water color specialist who has won many honors.

Yellows, yellow greens, whites and blacks are the preponderant means of expression in Quinn's papers. Complexity of design seems to fascinate this painter, who is so well known for his many water colors depicting old, ornate houses of this region.

He is an artist who can turn gingerbread architecture into palatable esthetic fare without losing the authenticity of the subject.

WHILE MANY artists must have a definite center of interest, Quinn shows that one can produce significant work with an overall design. Small details are grabbed and manipulated, interpreted effectively, and play their part and delight you the way flute and cymbals and other minor instruments do in larger symphony orchestras.

Though blacks and whites are forced to the extreme to give sparkle, though the white areas often are irrelevant to actual form and natural space in this artist's work, there is never any clash between the intended description and the abstract design ideal. Quinn, the master designer, the naturalist designer, does not fool around with weird distortions.

The work on hand demands explicit characterization — and gets it. He is a magician who conjures up the factual by means of the abstract. Thus an architectural atrocity, "The Coronado Boathouse," becomes an exciting record of a boring detail of an architectural

Parking Problem Stirs Debate, No Answers

The angle versus parallel parking problem here is still up in the air following a lengthy debate at the City Council meeting Tuesday night.

It appears that most councilmen, the chief of police and city administrator want parallel parking.

They believe a change in the present method would speed the flow of traffic, be less hazardous and, by improving the appearance of the downtown area, help business.

Dr. Dan D'Arcy To Head Valley Optometric Group

Dr. Dan L. D'Arcy, Sierra Madre optometrist, has been appointed to head the Legislative Committee of the San Gabriel Valley Optometric Society, it was announced by Dr. John W. Harvey of Monrovia, the group president.

Serving with Dr. D'Arcy as committee members, during the 1958-59 term of office, are Drs. Leonard Emery of Pasadena and Alfred Edwin of West Covina.

Dr. D'Arcy, a former director of the San Gabriel Valley Optometric Society, has been in professional practice in Sierra Madre for 12 years. He graduated from the Los Angeles College of Optometry in 1946. He and his wife, Nell, live at 321 E. Sierra Madre Blvd.

The optometrist also is serving as chairman of the society's Economics Advisory Committee and is a member of the Committee on Vocational Vision.

Various suggestions have been made to ease the traffic problem, including a time restriction on the unloading of trucks in the street, the erection of "set your brake" signs on Kersting Ct., and the stationing of a traffic patrolman at Baldwin and Sierra Madre Blvd. during rush hours.

BUSINESSMEN who urged no change in the present parking system at Tuesday's meeting are Sam Perloff, John Curtis and James Wolfe. Chamber President Robert H. Green presented his organization's point of view.

At the close of the debate, it was suggested by Mayor David Wood that the Council explore the method by which other cities have handled the problem.

And here the controversy rests, just about the same position it was before the latest wrangle. Presumably it will be resurrected at a future Council meeting.

UTILITY VALUES UP

The State Board of Equalization assessed utility properties at $3,395,507,000—a 9.4 per cent gain from the valuation placed upon them a year ago.

Volunteer Fire Prevention Drive Planned Here

A fire prevention campaign will get under way shortly in Sierra Madre, sponsored by the Volunteer Fire Department and the U.S. Forest Service.

Men from both organizations, working on their own time during weekends, plan to visit nearly every home in the canyon area of Sierra Madre.

They will watch for fire hazards and inform the residents of steps to take to minimize the danger of fire.

The City Council Tuesday night commended both organizations and voted to back the campaign.

Boy, 9, Is Found by Rescue Team

Members of the Search and Rescue Squad found a 9-year-old boy Monday who had been reported lost in the mountains. He was spotted only a few minutes before he would have arrived safely home.

Object of the search was William Dudis, of New York, on summer vacation at the home of his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Martindale, 264 Arbolita, Arcadia.

The Martindales called Sierra Madre police at 6:30 p.m. when they became alarmed over the failure of their nephew to return for supper.

William had been driven to the foot of Mt. Wilson Trail at 9 a.m. Monday.

The youngster was found in the 1400 block of San Carlos St., Arcadia. Assisting the local Rescue Squad were Temple City sheriff's deputies and searchers from Montrose.

Sierra Madreen Seriously Injured In Car Crash

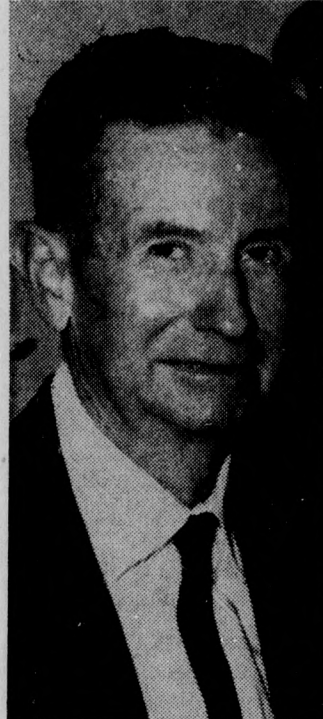

George Grijalva, 136 W. Highland, was seriously injured last week when the sports car he was driving turned over three times on S. Rosemead Blvd.

Grijalva and a companion, James McCaren, former Sierra Madreen now living in Monrovia, were traveling in an Austin-Healy convertible when they hit a traffic island, turned end-over-end three times and were thrown in a field.

They were taken to Beverly Hospital where Grijalva was treated for a head injury and bruises. McCaren sustained cuts and bruises. The car is a total wreck.

City Picks Vannier, Parks

Webster Vannier, former chairman of the Library Board, was appointed to the City Council Tuesday night to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Mayor David Wood. His appointment was effective yesterday.

Webster Vannier

day, the day of Wood's resignation.

The Council also appointed Frank Parks, a candidate for City Council in the last election, to serve on the Planning Commission. Parks succeeds John Redlon, former Commission chairman, who resigned several weeks ago.

Vannier, 131 W. Bonita, resigned from the Library Board recently after serving on it for nine years, part of that time as chairman.

He also served on the Planning Commission as secretary from 1938 to 1948. Vannier is a native Sierra Madreen.

Parks, 250 S. Mountain Trail, is a sales manager for C&M Homes in Azusa. A past president of the Azusa Lions Club, he is a member of St. Rita's Church and of the Holy Name Society.

In the last Council election, in which there were nine candidates, including the incumbent, Parks came in fourth, only a few votes behind Councilman James Abernethy.

City Action Urged on Carter Debris Basin

City councilmen were notified Tuesday night that the Wistaria Vine parking lot, built as an emergency flood control basin in early 1954, will be closed to traffic in the near future.

Richard K. Thayer, owner of the lot, urged the city to "somehow open" Wilcox Rd. to Carter Ave. and to make his lot suitable for subdividing.

Residents of this area now must cross the parking lot to get to Wilcox Rd. A berm across the south end of the parking lot, adjacent to Carter Ave., prevents debris from rolling into the street.

A CRIB DAM above the parking lot catches a small amount of debris, but the County Flood Control District believes a catch basin should be constructed below the dam as an additional safety measure before the berm is removed.

A spokesman from the Flood Control District warned councilmen Tuesday that the removal of the berm before a catch basin is built would increase the hazard in case of a heavy rain.

Councilmen pointed out, however, that the situation is much improved from 1954. A storm drain has been built, for example, in addition to the crib dam.

In any event, Thayer wants to subdivide his property, which means the Council must act within a reasonable time.

City Attorney Charles Martin suggested that a check be made with the Forest Service, which built the parking lot, to determine the facts in the case before any further action is taken.

IN OTHER action, the Council:

1. Adopted the new city budget which totals $755,674. Of this amount, $208,284 must be raised locally by taxation. The new tax rate, which can't be set until the assessment figures are known, is expected to be slightly lower than last year.

2. Acknowledged a letter from Supervisor Warren M. Dorn which urged the Republican and Democratic parties to hold their national conventions in the new, air-conditioned Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum in 1960.

3. Accepted the resignation of Police Patrolman George Reed and appointed two new patrolmen, Clyde J. King and Stanley G. Baney. This brings the Police Department up to full strength at 13 men, including the chief.

COIN CONVENTION

The 67th annual convention of the American Numismatic Assn. is now being held at the Statler Hotel, Los Angeles, through Aug. 16. The public is invited to attend admission free.

"It would be most desirable," the recommendation stated, "not to introduce a second separation in the form of a freeway only a short distance away."

Editorial

Parallel Vs. Angle Parking

Sierra Madre's perennial problem — parallel versus angle parking—has once again aroused downtown businessmen, most of whom see little reason for a change.

The majority of the merchants apparently believe a change to the parallel system would adversely affect their businesses by reducing the number of parking spaces and by making it more difficult to park.

Police Chief Gordon McMillian, however, thinks parallel parking would increase business by improving the appearance of the downtown area and by relieving traffic congestion.

CHIEF McMILLIAN is certainly sincere, and he has some impressive statistics to back up his contention that many more accidents are caused by angle than by parallel parking. His point of view, of course, is that of a chief of police attempting to protect the motorists and to speed the flow of traffic.

In any event, the City Council, whose duty it is to represent all the people of Sierra Madre, will have to make the decision.

Before the Council votes, the following points should be considered, as I'm sure they will be.

1. There have been no serious accidents in the downtown business area for several years. In fact, the only fatality in at least the past three years occurred in front of the Woman's Clubhouse where parallel, not angle, parking is observed.

2. The only time traffic congestion is serious in Sierra Madre is during the evening rush when commuters pass through Sierra Madre en route home.

Admittedly, parallel parking would speed the flow of cars by opening up an additional traffic lane, but the possible decline in business, it seems to me, is not sufficient justification.

One traffic policeman stationed at Baldwin Ave. and Sierra Madre Blvd. could do as much probably to keep traffic moving as the elimination of angle parking.

3. Sierra Madre's business district is small. We are surrounded on three sides by other bigger shopping centers, many of which have huge adjacent parking lots.

With the completion of still another shopping center at Michillinda and Foothill Blvd., business competition will become more fierce than it now is.

Furthermore, we are now merging from an economic slump, and the businessmen of this town are going to need every boost possible if they are to take advantage of the fall and Christmas shopping seasons.

The City Council, it seems to me, should think long and carefully before any steps are taken that could hurt business here.—H.W.E.

Around the Square

By Tommy Ann Miller

What to do with an owl in the flue? The Ben Garsons pondered this problem when they discovered a huge (four-foot wingspread) white-faced owl lodged in their chimney the other evening. Then, while they were alerting the Humane Society, the owl obligingly got unstuck and dropped down behind the fireplace screen.

The Humane officer's attempts to lasso the bird failed, and after circling the living room several times, the owl flapped out the front door and took flight in the night.

ROBBEY REBUFF. An innocuous looking Brink's truck (sans guns, steel bars and fierce guards), pulled up in front of the First Western Bank the other noon with this crime-detering: "Only Canceled Checks Transported In This Truck."

GEORGE GRIJALVA is probably still marveling that he's alive — after a bad smash-up on South Rosemead Blvd. last week. George, and companion, Jim McCaren (ex-Sierra Madrean, now of Monrovia), were traveling in George's little Austin-Healy convertible when they hit a traffic island, turned end-over-end three times and were thrown into a field.

The men landed in the Beverly Hospital for four days—(George with a head injury and bruises; Jimmy with cuts) and George's sports car landed in the junkyard—a total wreck.

ORCHIDS BEDECKED the shoulders of Robert's Market clerks last Thursday, thanks to Mrs. Charles Kuahine (daughter of the bookkeeper, Clara Perry). The Kuahine family are visiting Mrs. Perry and will sail back to their Hawaii home in September.

BRAVO! to Kosta Andrejovich for his heart-gladdening switch in landlord policy. He offered a house for rent (corner of Montecito and Michillinda) and stipulated that people with children pay ten dollars less per month—"because," he said, "it cost a lot to raise kids."

DR. GEORGE GROTH Jr. is enjoying a phone-less, emergency-less (we hope) two weeks with his family—trailer camping in the High Sierras.

SENSE OF GLOOMER. Spied lurking by the Canyon Grocery: an ancient black Packard funeral coach (shadowy window curtains, etc.), with "Last Ride" painted across the rear.

TOMORROW, Cam Guitierrez will tack tight his little shoe repair shop (where he performs his sandal-making magic) and take his wife, Celia and five children on a much-needed holiday excursion to Phoenix.

CANYON TO COAST. Phyllis Buchanan, soon vacates her Woodland Drive hideaway for a fortnight's sunning on the shores of Balboa and South Laguna.

MIDNIGHT PAYMENT. A local English couple are often seen strolling the solitary moors of town in the late evening hours with a hand-full of utility bills, etc., which they post at various offices around the Square.

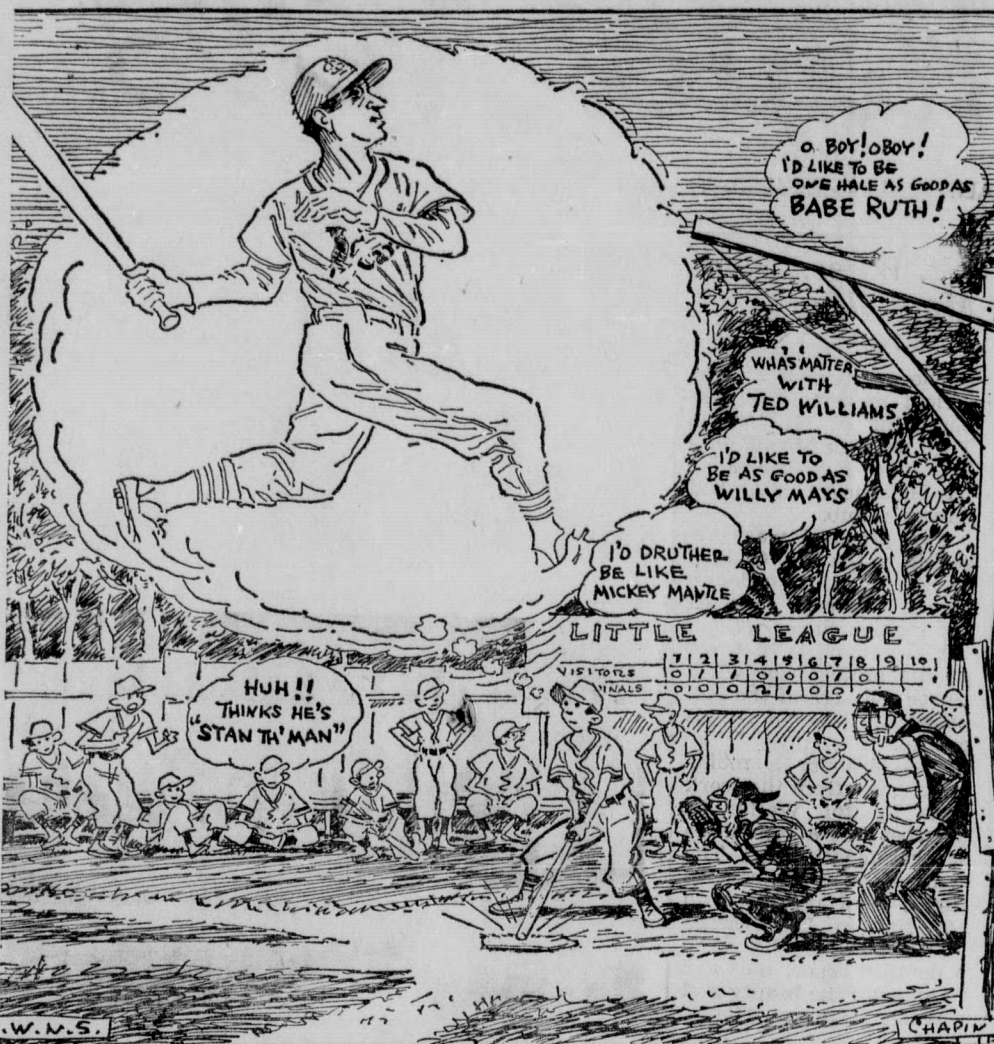

GLEANED FROM a Hollywood gossip column: that actress, Rhonda Fleming has become extremely enthusiastic over the paintings of Kenneth Nack (ex-Canyonite). She is reportedly going to sponsor an exhibit of Nack's paintings in her Bel Air home this autumn, and plans to have Ken and his wife, Joanie, flown out from New York.

SORE SOARING. Two young aviators, Scott Toms and Eric Richter, climbed a middle-sized tree in the park and took off into the wild blue yonder wearing a pair of cardboard wings. Outcome? Unfortunately, Scott, 5-year-old son of the LeRoy Toms, suffered a broken right arm when he failed to gain altitude.

Ike Aware of 'Barren' Mid-East Policy

By Robert G. Spivack

EISENHOWER—A STUDY IN CONTRASTS—The President has rarely been so good or so bad as he was at his Aug. 6 press conference. Sometimes it was hard to realize that it was the same man talking.

When it came to the Middle East, the President was full of suggestions. He indicated a deep awareness that U.S. policy in that area has been barren. Without mentioning Secretary Dulles the President even seemed to agree with Walter Lippmann and other critics that our policies have been negative and that they were going nowhere.

"Troops are never going to win the peace," the President admitted. "We've got to do something positive, and this must be in the field of moral and spiritual and economic and political strengthening of all these areas."

He spoke of irrigation projects and hydroelectric development as the sort of thing that could make an Eden of the North African desert.

WHEN IT CAME to the far-away Middle East the President could see the problems clearly.

"The people are impatient," he said, "and they are turning to people that they do not trust, that they do not believe are going to be content in letting them have their own freedom of action; and I say we must make it possible for them to turn to us to get effective help . . . But when it came to matters closer to home—the protection of civil rights for Negro school children—the President was by his own admission at a loss what to do.

A reporter pointed out that we are approaching the start of another school year which is likely to bring as much tension in the South as ever, and perhaps, more. Did the President have "any plans" to head off the tension?

As he frequently has in the past, the President gave a little sermon on how "we have got to look inside ourselves" and how "I keep preaching that there must be some wisdom" within each of us on meeting this problem.

THE ABSENCE OF A PLAN—It has now been four years since the Supreme Court handed down its integration decision. And the opening of each school year has been marked by defiance of law and segregationist violence. Only last year the President had to send troops to Little Rock, because Gov. Faubus openly encouraged the lawless elements.

Yet when asked if he planned to say something or issue any special instructions to the Justice Department the President could only answer:

"Now, I cannot possibly tell you in what aspect any acute situation may arise, indeed, whether there ever will be (one) of that kind. "I just say it is something all of us have to work—and I would—if I could think of anything I thought would be effective in August or in the few weeks before, the two or three weeks before, the schools start, why, I certainly shouldn't hesitate to do it."

How sad.

WITH SUCH an absence of fervor is there little wonder that the Senate Judiciary Committee headed by Sen. James O. Eastland of Mississippi is in no hurry to act on the nomination of the man Eisenhower wants to head the Justice Department's new Civil Rights Division?

"Our Gem," as some Mississippians call the senator, has held four hearings on Ike's nominee, W. Wilson White, a Philadelphia lawyer. White was the man who researched for the Justice Department the legal questions on use of troops in Little Rock and so he has become symbol of integration for Eastland and company.

If Ike won't urge Southern segregationists to behave themselves when the schools re-open, might he not at least put in a plug for White's confirmation?

The trouble, I am afraid, is not that Eisenhower lacks enthusiasm for civil rights or that he is playing politics with the South. I think the President actually does not know his own strength—or how much power and prestige the office of the Presidency possesses. He also doesn't realize that if it isn't used this power and prestige withers away.

SMALL POOL NEED

Dear Sir:

Most of us living in Sierra Madre appreciate what our swimming pool has done to our community, especially for the youngsters. However, the rules established for the admittance are not entirely just. I have a boy that has used the pool nearly every day since it was open this season. Recently an attendant at the pool told him to leave the pool and not return until he became 7 years old (he is 6).

We (our family) live close to the pool. My boy stands outside of the fence surrounding the pool every day. He stands there in tears and sad disappointment, while his older brother and his pals are enjoying themselves. I am sure there are many repetitions of this situation and should be remedied immediately. We must have facilities for all our youngsters. A small pool adjacent to the main pool is not very costly, and could very well be a good investment to provide swimming for all.

Basket Weaver, Scientist Light Years Apart

By Eleanor N. Wood

Cross-legged on a desolate beach, wrinkling his nose in a cloud of sulphur dioxide fumes from a nearby fish cannery, sits an Indian basket-weaver.

Shards of green and beige bamboo litter the sand at his feet; with a machete he cuts and shaves them into long strips, peeling away the dead foliage from the stalks. With a grey stone he pounds the remaining fibrous stems until they are pliable enough to be worked. Then, using a sharp knife, his teeth, his agile fingers and his nearly-as-agile toes, he weaves the fresh supply of raw material into a bamboo basket he is making.

IN HALF an hour he has completed the basket; he sells it for the equivalent of $1.40, American or Mexican currency. He is pleased with the profits of his hour-and-a-half's work.

He is a native craftsman of Baja California's sleepy old town of Ensenada, struggling now to become a fashionable new resort spa, along the lines of Acapulco.

LESS THAN 100 miles north of this man and the civilization he represents, a sprawling new aggregation of 20 buildings have just cut the tape screening their stainless-steel, glass and plaster interior from the impatient public. Hurried to completion to meet international competition, the brand-new Convair plant outside San Diego, which was especially created to build Atlas intercontinental missiles, is holding a press preview.

Within, upstairs in a dimly-lit, deeply carpeted "visual presentation" room, a group of scientists and engineers first "brief" and then "debrief" the press. Sober physicists and mathematicians parry questions from New York Times, "Time," "Life" and wire service newsmen. A question is asked about the future of space travel; the non-military uses of the new forces.

CHEWING HIS pipestem and blowing a cloud of blue smoke up toward the air-conditioning vents on the midnight-colored acoustical ceiling, the director of the astronautical division says that "of course in the next few hundred years we will feel the need to colonize planets. If nothing else we will probably require some of their natural resources. And if we find a suitable planet for our needs, moving around in the wrong orbit, we'll probably just find it easiest to change its orbit and put it where it will be more useful."

NOW THESE two men, with their revolving complexes, live and work only a few hours' drive apart on our fantastic California coastline. In the past month I have twice driven down the shining new stretch of the Santa Ana freeway that connects us with the coast route to San Diego, and observed both of these scenes.

Only a militantly-patrolled, but otherwise artificial, border separates California from Baja. Topographically they have the same arid hills, the same abrupt coastal mountains, the same dumb-brown appearance.

Even the people, except for the color of their skin, look similar, affecting the same loose cotton shirt and short cotton pants the wiry-haired Spanish-speaking Indians have always worn, but that we have only lately been sensible enough to adopt, euphemizing the costume with new, fashionable names like "Bermuda shorts," etc.

THE SAME rough raffia textures in chairs, lampshades, bamboo drapes—can also be seen above and below the border. What then creates the unbridgeable gap between men who sit barefoot in the sand as their ancestors did thousands of years ago, and men who speak casually of moving planets from their orbit?

Only the political and economic systems are fundamentally different. These two men are both leaving homes and families every morning; they both are going off to work to win the best living for them they can. Only the opportunity to learn, to profit from the skills and arts and knowledge of the past, is different. That and the incentive to profit from all these things personally.

That's why when people say politics and economics are dull abstractions, incomprehensible except to glibly-gook-speaking professors and government technicians, they're kidding themselves. Politics and economics are the inescapable forces that affect almost every action of every person's life every day. Whether a man goes "down to the office" or "down to the plant" and brings home scanty survival rations or largess that surprises even himself, he is directly governed by the opportunities afforded him in the complex he lives in.

HOW CAN we spring across the chasm of thousands of years to make these two men understand one another—and we as the general public understand their mutual and exclusive needs? For that is what we must do if the terrifyingly swift progress of our times is to bring us all into closer and closer daily contact. The barefoot weaver will read and hear, to his discontent, of the achievements of the astronautical physicist. He will chafe to share the fruits, if not the labors, of his world.

Drawn closer and closer by faster transportation, more trade, population pressures and shrinking resources, the differences of the two must be recognized and gradually composed. That, more than the limitless dim stretches between the stars, is the real challenge which confronts us all.

The Kulinary Kettle . . . Writing Team's Recipes Are Fit for Gourmet

By Toni Maurin
SYcamore 7-9634

When I asked Mrs. Holling Clancy (Lucille) Holling of Edgely Lane for some recipes I hoped that she would give me some of her favorite patio serving recipes, as I know they enjoy eating in their lovely garden a good part of the year. Although this menu is simple to prepare it would satisfy the most particular gourmet.

BROILED FILLET MIGNON
To serve six people Mrs. Holling buys the whole fillet mignon, which is sometimes referred to as a fillet butt. This piece runs about three pounds.

She trims some of the excess fat from the meat and uses a garlic press to impregnate the fat with garlic. She never puts garlic directly on the meat. She then marinates it for a good 36 hours in Kikkoman Shoyu Sauce (this is available in most markets) and olive, sesame seed or soy bean oil.

About 30 minutes before serving she broils it on a previously prepared charcoal fire allowing about 15 minutes for each side. She removes it from the broiler (Mr. Holling takes care of this operation) to a wooden plank. The meat is served by slicing at an angle. She sprinkles the meat while it is hot with blue cheese or Roquefort and drawn butter if her guests desire.

With this entree she serves the following ring mold which can be prepared well in advance.

NOODLE RING MOLD WITH ONION-MUSHROOM CHEESE SAUCE

For the ring mold she uses about four twists of Yolanda spinach noodles, which may be purchased in most Italian grocery stores. She boils the noodles in salted water for about 15 minutes or until tender and drains them immediately in a colander. She then puts them into a well oiled ring mold while still hot and refrigerates the mold until she is ready to use it.

For her sauce she uses the following.

One basket of small white pearl onions boiled in salted water until tender. Drain and set aside, saving cooking liquor. Sauté about two boxes of fresh button mushrooms in a covered skillet with butter for about 2 minutes, shaking skillet often. The trick to sautéing the mushrooms is not to wash them if they are open buttons. If they need cleaning, rub them lightly with a dampened woolen cloth. Washing mushrooms not only ruins the flavor, but also makes them too watery.

Combine 1½ cups of the onion liquor with 1 level tablespoon of corn starch. Cook well until sauce is thickened. Then add ½ pound of Cheese Whiz or any other good melting cheese. When sauce is completely blended and the consistency of a medium white sauce add the vegetables.

Invert the ring mold on a large oven-proof platter and place in a medium oven until thoroughly warm. At this time you will be able to lift the metal mold easily from the noodles. Pour the vegetable sauce in the middle and sprinkle with slivered almonds.

She feels the following salad sets off the rest of the dinner and may be prepared the day before.

CUCUMBER MOLDED SALAD
2 medium grated cucumbers
1 pkg. lime jello or plain gelatin
1 cup mayonnaise

1 cup boiling water
Lime juice or lemon juice
Melt jello or gelatin with the boiling water until completely dissolved. (When using plain gelatin follow directions on package.) With plain gelatin, you may wish to use lime juice, with the jello, just enough to cut sweet flavor. Add the grated cucumbers and 1 cup mayonnaise and stir until well blended. Pour into an oiled (vegetable oil) mold and chill.

When she turns the mold out on a platter she garnishes it with cherry tomatoes, watercress and lettuce. No additional dressing is necessary. Hot buttered rolls or hot bread finishes off this meal.

For dessert she likes to serve fruit on wooden plates. Wedges of melon, strawberries, frozen raspberries and peaches make a nice combination, and to-top it off, she toasts individual pieces of lemon chiffon cake in the broiler.

It would be difficult to describe the absolute peace and serenity one feels as you approach the Holling home and gardens. Mrs. Holling herself designed and drew up all of the blueprints for their home and she has achieved a perfect wedding of house and garden.

Their home is surrounded by beautiful old tropical plants and they have blended the outside color so well that you are hardly aware of the transition from garden to house.

The Hollings have long worked together as a writing team. Their latest group of five books is a series on Americana, published by the Houghton Mifflin Publishing Co. of Boston.

The series includes "Tree in the Trail," "Minn of the Mississippi," "Seabird, Paddle to the Sea," and the most recent, "Fagoo." They have been translated into Dutch, German and French. Their books have been highly praised for their quality of educating children as well as entertaining them.

They are about to embark on a new series, the subject of which they have not divulged for publication at this time.

MR. AND MRS. Holling have traveled all over the country doing research on all of their books, and while Mr. Holling compiles the subject matter into book form, Mrs.

Holling busies herself with most of the colored and black and white sketches that are so characteristic of all of their work.

They have not confined their collaborating only to writing. Their entire home gives evidence of the work that has made them one of the best known writing teams in the country. They have done most of the wood paneling and decorating together and have achieved a unique effect that would be difficult to do with talents less than theirs. It is little wonder they have claimed so much success with so many complementary gifts and skills.

By confessing their ignorance people place themselves in a position to learn. Some people feel compelled to be a nuisance just so they can attract attention.

Butterfly Migration Is Among World's Marvels

Visit Monterey, Pacific Grove, or Carpinteria and you're almost sure to hear about the butterflies. In this case, points out the National Automobile Club, the butterflies will be the giant Monarchs, their reddish-brown wings veined with black.

And you'll hear about them because of their most unusual semi-annual migratory flight that takes them over the hundreds of miles from Alaska to California. There are all types of migratory flights but that of the Monarchs is most unusual for they fly only one way and then die; their progeny fly back to the starting point in Alaska.

LET US look at the cycle as it occurs each year. In the late summer, Monarchs from the meadowlands of Alaska start to congregate in large groups and move down the coast. As they go, they are joined by other Monarchs along the way and soon great masses of them are winging their way southward. Down along Washington and Oregon they go, and into California. In Central California they wing out across Monterey Bay and then begin to take to the trees at Monterey, Pacific Grove, and farther south at Carpinteria.

On the same Monterey pines and live oaks on which they have been swarming for years, they settle down, each hanging to the end of a pine needle, leaves folded, dormant. For four long months they nap there, and then, with the coming of spring, they awaken.

IN THE early spring they breed and die. Their progeny flutter about the hills and valleys, feeding on the milkweed, gaining strength for the long journey back to the North.

And then, one day, these butterflies born in Monterey begin to move out in little groups, begin to move up the coast. Northward they go, feeding lightly on plant nectar as they go, and coming at last to the meadowlands that their parents had left the late summer before. There they will breed and die and their progeny will come down to Monterey.

So strange is this flight that each year the arrival of the Monarchs is celebrated by a Butterfly Pageant in Pacific Grove and police of the area are not slow to arrest anyone found disturbing or destroying the butterflies during their long winter sleep.

Garden Notes . . .

Evergreen Hibiscus Adds To Tropical Garden Theme

If you aspire to a tropical paradise all your own, the evergreen hibiscus will go a long way toward making it possible. In most of Southern California, this hibiscus (H. rosa sinensis) can be counted on to produce its exotic blooms year after year.

Since they are in bloom in nurseries in August, the California Association of Nurserymen suggests that you select hibiscus now to insure that you get the bloom color and size you want.

You will also want to check foliage which varies. Leaves of some varieties are large and broad; of others, graceful and slender. Still others have leaves which tend to crinkle and curl, a trait which is attractive to some and not to others.

BLOOMWISE you can have just about whatever you want from small single flowers to large doubles. And just name your favorite flower color. You stand a good chance of finding it in the hibiscus.

One of the most talked about new varieties in a decade is Fullmoon, so named because its full, wide-spread blooms of lemon-yellow give a full moon effect. Other yellow and golden varieties worth your attention are Crown of Bohemia, a double, and Luna, a large single of yellow-orange hues.

FAVORITES among the pinks are Agnes Gault, with huge single blooms; Kate Sessions, another single, and Kona, a double.

Ross Estey is another eye-catcher. Its two-toned blooms are large and single, with ruffled orange edges shading to rose in the center. And Kauai, a single rose-pink, can be counted on for a show of color even in winter.

Plant these evergreen hibiscus in sun and give them plenty of water. They are rapid growers and will benefit by heavy pruning each spring to keep them in good form. They need little food, but respond to an occasional feeding with better flower and foliage.

CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP is twofold. First, it is a relationship in and with Christ. We express this in love, unity and service.

Second, this relationship is toward other Christians. This, too, consists of love, unity and service. However, our fellowship with others has its basis in God. We first love God before we can ever really love and serve our fellowmen.

ST. PAUL emphasizes the unity of this fellowship. In it we share everything that our Lord is or did. In it we share His death and His resurrection. We are all one body. And as Christ, the head of this body, rose to live forever, so do His children.

CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP begins on earth, but goes on into life everlasting. Read I Corin. 1:1-9.

Salt 'n Spray . . . Early Birds Catch Fish, It Says Here

By Al Miyadi

Sunday, I took a whirl out of Paradise Cove in an outboard with another buggy fisherman, Bill Thomas, an assistant city editor of the Mirror-News (former editor of The Sierra Madre News).

The Cove's high-powered PR man, Bill Beebe, had warned us to get out good and early. We took him at his word and by 5:30 a.m. we were camped between the barge and the kelp beds.

We trolled for 20 minutes without results. Then Bill spotted the gulls working near the kelp.

Within minutes we were sitting on top of the slaughter.

OCCASIONALLY a rocket-shaped bonito, looking like a bluefin tuna, would break water with jaws agape in its pursuit of a hapless sardine.

I flipped out a live anchovy on top of a quick swirl. My gear was a freshwater outfit, the reel filled with 250 yards of 6-pound test mono, no leader, no sinker.

The bait hadn't drifted 20 yards when a bonito mouthed it. I set the hook before he had a chance to spit it. The fish promptly stripped my reel of 200 yards of line before he turned. Then I made the mistake so many fishermen make. I cinched down on the drag in a panic. The tip of my rod snapped up as the line popped.

During the day I lost over a dozen in much the same fashion.

Still, I managed to pick up a barracuda and six calico bass.

The fish were definitely on the touchy side and if it had not been for my light tackle I wouldn't have had nearly as many hits.

BILL, for example, using conventional saltwater spinning rig with 15-pound test mono, had only five pickups. He took one bonito and several bass.

At day's end, he and I both agreed that we could have taken limits instead of the few we managed if we had used 8-pound test line.

For the bonito, maybe 10-pound test wouldn't be a bad idea, either.

The barracuda are a fairly easy mark.

Beebe was right about early morning fishing. Almost all of our action took place between 5:30 and 9.

Nearly all the fishermen we saw—and there must have been over a hundred outdoors working—were using terminal tackle. As a result, the day's catch was relatively light. The bait was excellent, straight anchovies.

In any case, limits or not, on an outboard you don't have to fight for fishing room. And that's a good way to go fishing.

ELSEWHERE on the deep-sea front, Horseshoe Kelp broke wide open Tuesday as Long Beach boats loaded up on barracuda, over 3,000.

Rocky Point also broke open on Tuesday, mostly barracuda and bonito. Santa Monica boats working the Venice Reef and doing well on barracuda, bonito and a few white sea bass.

Catalina Island turned cold over the weekend. San Diego's hot white sea bass run abruptly turned cold but barracuda thick at the Coronados.

also some nice catches of bluefin, a few yellowfin, which should mean the dolphin should shake loose shortly. One report says dolphin have been taken near San Francisco—hard to believe.

Surf fishing is slow everywhere. For freshwater, you can just about write the season off, very slow—unless you want to pack in.

Lake Isabella still excellent for bluegill and crappie—good sport for the kids—trout plants continue and crowds thinning so maybe. If you insist on trout, try Big Bear. Lake Arrowhead and Lake Gregory very poor.

There is nothing quite like a change of scenery to refresh one's perspective. After weeks of preparation, packing, doing laundry, cleaning drawers at the same time, more packing, more laundry, yelling at the kids what a wonderful time we were going to have once we got there, we finally got our four kids into the slightly overburdened and ancient station wagon. Amid boxes, cartons, bundles, fishing poles and hula hoops, too numerous to mention, we started off for Balboa, still shouting at the children about what a wonderful time we were going to have when we got there. And you know, we did have a wonderful time.

Now we are home again unpacking, doing laundry, cleaning drawers at the same time, more unpacking, more laundry, and still telling the children what a wonderful time we had.

THE AIKMAN Armstrong family of Fairpoint pulled in late last Sunday after a trip north. Mrs. Armstrong drove up with her two children, Hank and Kit. Mrs. Colvin Doughty and her two, Eve and Maureen, joined them on the trip up. They visited with friends in Atherton, San Francisco and Santa Rosa. Mr. Armstrong flew up last Friday to drive the family home.

THE JOHN CHAPMANS of Old House Road are finally back in the fold after various and sundry trips. They started out with a couple of days at Balboa, then on to Rancho Santa Fe. They returned home for a few days until their eldest son, Steve, returned from Lake Vermilion in Minnesota where he was visiting his grandparents. They then went with the entire family for a week at Lake Tahoe.

MR. AND MRS. William Rittenhouse of Windover Road have returned home from a three-week Hawaiian vacation. They went over on the Lurline and returned on the Matsonia. While there they rented a car and toured the island. One of the things that impressed them was the great number of open air restaurants with absolutely nothing but the sky for a ceiling. They also thoroughly enjoyed riding in the outrigger canoes which, they told me, is a must for tourists.

UP BARKITE WAY, the George Amthors have had a continuous stream of relatives coming in from San Antonio, Texas. Their first visitors were Mrs. Amthor's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Thraillkill. They spent two weeks between here and Balboa. In their wake came Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph E. Zuelcke, her parents, who will be visiting for about three weeks.

THE W. H. DUNNINGS returned with their four children from a trip to Berkeley, where they visited Mrs. Dunning's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Love. Upon their return they entertained houseguests from Belvedere in Marin County. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Burton C. Jacobson and their three children, Derek, Jimmy and Henry.

MR. AND MRS. J. Kieth Anderson of Sierra Madre Villa recently returned from a 4,000-mile trip into Canada. They started at Banff and then up to Lake Louise where they stopped at a beautiful new lodge.

Part of the time when they didn't make connections they camped out. They did a great deal of hiking and picture taking. They were able to get a lot of deer, bear, wild goats, fox and moose.

On their return trip they stopped at Yellowstone and then came on in through Las Vegas.

THE JOSEPH PHELPS family of Old House Road may be seen weekly in Long Beach bay skinning along the water on skis. They feel all shut in if they don't get down at least on weekends.

Carol Abernethy Feted At Party

John Jenkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Jenkins, 1170 Pine Bluff, was host at a swimming, dancing and buffet supper party honoring Carol Abernethy, who was entering St. Luke Hospital for minor surgery.

In attendance were Chris Carroll, Pam Shillam, David Stewart and La NetteLove.

Stephen Cagle Has Birthday Party on TV

Stephen Cagle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben J. Cagle, 1010 Hastings Ranch Dr., was selected and crowned "Birthday Boy" on TV's Chuck's Cartoon Program in celebration of his sixth birthday anniversary.

Those guests taking part in the festivities were the guest of honor's sister, Linda Cagle, Tom Brady, Jimmy and Tommy Hanson, Eddie O'Donnell, David Lampert, Allen Pulsifer, Laura Stearns, Doug Huth, Andy Uphoff, Brian and Nancy Robison, Alison Prescott, Debby Dumas, Deb Friend, Tom Blakeley, Debbie Brown and Bruce Ryan.

Mrs. Ford Visits With Voges Family

Mrs. Alma Ford of Indianapolis, Ind., spent a week visiting her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford R. Voges, 1105 Valley View, and their daughter, Lynn.

Mrs. Edna Schreiber of New Palestine, Ind., accompanied her sister on the visit. While in the Ranch Mrs. Ford entertained Mrs. J. M. Harrell, Mrs. William E. Heller and children, John, Andy and Marie, Mrs. Alpheus L. Pruitt, Mrs. Schreiber and Lynn Voges at a buffet luncheon in Rand's Restaurant.

It was Mrs. Schreiber's first visit to California and the "traveling pair" made stops in San Francisco, Yosemite and San Diego. On their way home they were guests at the Grand Canyon.

Dance Club Members At Party

Members of Hastings Ranch Dance Club met last Saturday night in the home of E. Marshall Harris, 1540 Sierra Madre Villa, for a "Bernuda Holiday" co-hosts for the swim, buffet supper and dancing party were the Jack Parichs, Horace Rays and Thomas Horns.

In attendance were Mr. and Mrs. Don Alsop, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Bickler, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Bush and Mr. and Mrs. Cal Brown. Also, Mr. and Mrs. John Fricke, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Hurlig, Mr. and Mrs. Blair Hyde, Mr. and Mrs. Draper Jennings, Mr. and Mrs. Karl Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Masser and Mr. and Mrs. Russ Pooler.

Also, Mr. and Mrs. Al Brutt, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Ray, Mr. and Mrs. Phil Saurenman, Mr. and Mrs. Will Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. Roland Whitely, Mr. and Mrs. David Zinsmeyer, Mr. and Mrs. Helmut Vorster and Mr. and Mrs. John La Montagne.

All the world's a stage—and life is the greatest show on earth.

TWO GUN CLOWN—Jiggles, the clown, will welcome the kids, and the grownups too, when they visit the 1958 California State Fair and Exposition in Sacramento, August 27-September 7. He will be master-of-ceremonies at the Treasure Chest program, impresario of all clowns at the fair, and perform at the Outdoor Theater and the Bandstand. The Marge part of this column certainly wishes she could find a big fat bush to hide under. However, she has eaten so much "crow" in her life that she has almost gotten to like the taste of it. In any event, the description of the "planned fire" in last week's column may be laid at her door. Better she was contemplating wetting the roof down with, and drowned herself.

The fire was NOT "planned" and the controlling of it was by the Los Angeles County Fire Department with the aid of a pumper and a crew of men. Capt. Thomas of L.A. County Engine 66, located on New York Dr., stated there was no evidence to support arson or the work of a fire bug and it was assumed the brush fire was started by smoking or children playing with matches.

It should prove a good lesson to all of us living so near the mountains. Our children should be constantly reminded of the damage caused by matches and even though adults were more likely responsible if a cigarette started the fire, kids definitely don't have to be juvenile delinquents to try out the "art of smoking." If parents could find some way of letting their children know the center of a tennis court is a far better place to try their first smoke, rather than hidden behind some brush, it would be a help.

Another thing that proves we are city folks, unaware of our closeness to the mountains, is the fact that only three people reported the fire to the county fire dispatcher and not more than eight to Pasadena. Out of all the people out watching the fire, only 11 didn't take for granted someone else had surely called the fire department. Grant Brown was the first one to report the fire.

Capt. Thomas stated the department always encourages people to report a fire regardless of how many previous calls have been received.

THE TED DONALD family have arrived home after a two-week stay in Northern California. Part of their time was spent on the Russian River and at Pinecrest Camp, University of California at Berkeley's summer camp, where they saw a number of their friends from college days.

THE NATE Danchiks and sons, Mike and Steve, availed themselves of the opportunity to "cool-off" for a week at Laguna Beach.

I HEARD about one of the Ranch postmen who was very fond of the people he served, as they were of him, who found his route was to be changed. In explaining to one of the gals why he hated to make the change, he mentioned what nice people he had and BESIDES, "he'd gotten used to the way the women looked in the morning." One look in the mirror, before the "war paint" was applied, and I knew what he meant.

SCOTT DUBOIS is home from Balboa where he was visiting his grandmother. The poor kid spent part of his time in Hoag Memorial Hospital in Newport Beach where he was taken for an emergency appendectomy.

ERNIE and Cretona Wenberg had a nice stay at the pretty little bay below Ensenada. I wonder why more of us don't visit there. Every one who makes the trip has (Continued on Page 9)

David Brown Entertains At Party

David Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Harvey Brown Jr., 1405 Hastings Ranch Dr., was host at a recent square dance party and buffet dinner, with friends from Don Bonito School's June graduating class in attendance.

Tables were arranged on the lawn for dinner guests and dancing was on the lawn with square dance and "pop" music being piped from the hi-fi.

Highlight of the supper was the serving of a special "Congratulations to the Graduates" cake.

Those bidden to form the squares were Mary Anne Morse, Deanna Rowan, Cheryl McKibbin, Patsy Carley, Gail Lewis, Gail Tamplin, Malinda Hays, Jan Brown, Robert Captain, Charles Roth, Ron Stone, Robin Willis, Tim Paxson, Wayne Wilson and Tim Roswell.

David was assisted at the party by his parents and Mrs. Mary Stine.

Clipper Club Swim Party On Saturday

The Clipper Club of Trinity Presbyterian Church has scheduled a swimming party next Saturday at the Arcadia home of Mr. and Mrs. Billings K. Ruddock, 284 Arbolada Dr.

Swimming will begin at 3 p.m., which will be followed by a pool-side buffet supper. The evening's festivities will be completed with dancing.

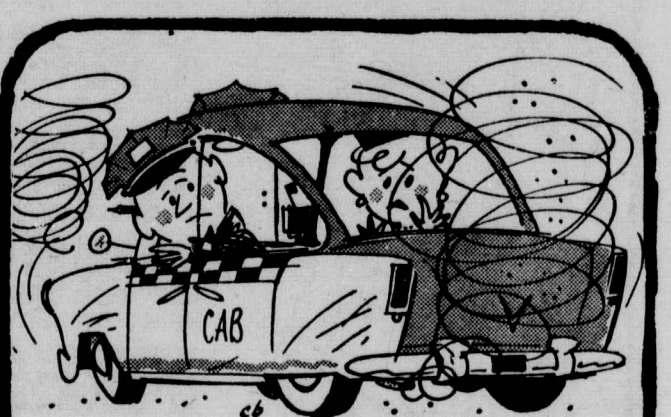

The 20 couples in attendance will be welcomed by the skippers, Peggy and Joe Smyth, and the first mates, Dolores and Don Ridenour.

Party arrangements are under the direction of the co-hosts, Carmen and William Vogel and Charlotte and Richard Hauck.

nothing but nice things to say about it. There is an attractive motel as well as trailer park, so we ought to be able to find a place to stay.

THERE ARE many cats in the area living "high on the fish" these days. A number of the fellows in Trinity Men's Club chartered a fishing boat off San Clemente and despite the reports of wonderful runs of yellow tail didn't manage much more than mackerel and more mackerel. The day wasn't wasted though, because regardless of what came out of the sea, they had a wonderful time.

AL AND Vera Knesby entertained their sister and brother-in-law, the Carl Wilsons of Grand Rapids, Mich., and son, Edward, during their week's stay in the Ranch.

FRIENDS AND neighbors of Bud Marrs will be glad when he is off the sick list and feeling his old self.

HAL LEFFINGWELL and Bill McClain planned a fun outing for their families during their stay at the Bahia Inn on Mission Beach near San Diego. They visited a local dime store and purchased "treasures" which they placed in a coffee can and took to a nearby island and buried. That evening, they brought their families to the island for a barbecue and picnic and just happened to make it possible for the children to find a map. From then on it was a matter of hanging on to the coat-tails of the kids as they went from one clue to another designated on the map. The Bob Meason family spent one week-end with them and they also had visits from Frank Cary family, former Ranch residents now living in Atherton, who were vacationing in La Jolla.

LARETTA and Paul Adams spent the first part of last week at Del Mar. So far, no reports forthcoming on how the horses treated them.

WHAT GAL who prides herself on never being at a loss for words made a hasty retreat from the check stand at Shopping Bag after unsuccessfully trying to explain to the boy exactly WHAT a capon was. I bet if she ever buys another one, she'll smuggle it out of the back door.

MELITA AND Wendell Booth are back from giving the gay spots in San Francisco a whirl. Daughter, Wendy, spent her time visiting the Jim Nashes, former Ranch residents now living in King City. Dr. Jim is now affiliated with the medical center in the agricultural town.

JOHN BABICK is back in the Ranch after a stay at Crestline. He played it real cool and got himself a summer job in the resort area. Bet he's sorry to be back in all this heat.

Climate Is Causative Factor In Rheumatic Fever Infection

(Presented as a public service by the Foothill District of the Los Angeles County Medical Association.)

QUESTION—Are synthetic drugs for relief of pain likely to produce addiction?—R.D.

ANSWER—Chemical research has continually been seeking drugs which would relieve pain but not cause addiction; but so far these efforts have not succeeded.

A number of drugs have been developed that are less addicting than morphine or heroin, but because they reduce pain (the depressant effect) they also are accompanied by the excitatory corollary and thus can produce addiction.

Q. What is the effect of adrenal hormones on arthritis?—H.B.

A. These hormones, when properly used for the treatment of arthritis, are chiefly symptomatic in their effect. That is, their prime value is in relieving the acute discomfort of rheumatoid arthritis, gouty arthritis and certain other arthritis conditions involving inflammatory tissue. Osteoarthritis, a form of arthritis which is due to age and to wear and tear on the joints, usually is not greatly benefitted by these hormones.

Q. What causes rheumatic fever?—W.T.

A. There are three major factors involved in the cause of rheumatic fever, most important of which is the streptococcus germ. It now is generally accepted medically that there must be a streptococcus infection in order for rheumatic fever to develop. Because streptococci occur in such varieties and are capable of inflicting different disease, only about 4 per cent of individuals incurring a streptococcus infection develop rheumatic fever.

Heredity, or a pre-disposition toward rheumatic fever in the family, is another important contributor. A careful history of a case usually will reveal that other members of the same family have had rheumatic fever.

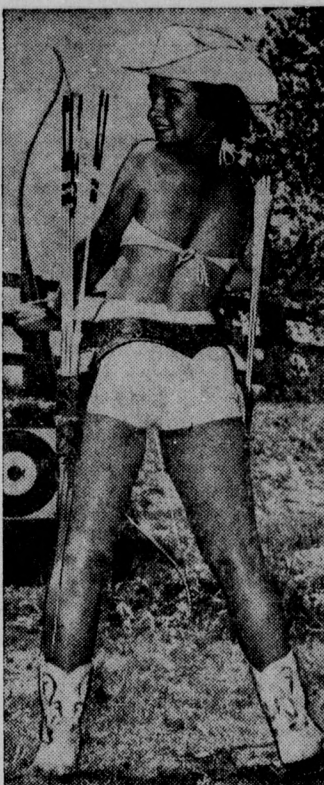

It does not necessarily follow, however, that because one member of the family gets it the others will, too. Luck plays some part in this, of course, but there also are definite preventive measures available.

THE THIRD major contributing factor is the geographical area in which you live. A map of the United States, plotted to show the incidence of rheumatic fever by states, would reveal that a block of northeastern states, principally New York and Pennsylvania, and the states of Utah and Colorado, produce the greatest number of cases per capita.

The lowest incidence occurs in such states as California and throughout the South from Texas to North Carolina. This gives rise to the theory that year-around moderate climate offers the least opportunity for rheumatic fever infection to develop, with the greatest opportunity occurring in those areas with extreme changes of climate.

Pomona Golf Course Dedication Planned Today

County Supervisor Frank G. Bonelli and Los Angeles County Parks and Recreation Director Norman S. Johnson will dedicate the site of a new public golf course in the eastern part of Los Angeles County on Thursday, Aug. 14.

The 174-acre golf course site lies three miles southwest of Pomona and is the first major land acquisition from the 8,000-acre Diamond Bar Ranch in Brea Canyon. The 18-hole course will help meet the expanding recreational needs of the area, said Johnson. Acquisition of the site marks the beginning of development of a projected 60,000-population city.

Plans for the course include extensive landscaping, parking facilities for 500 cars, a clubhouse with restaurant, banquet rooms, bar and pro shop.

Things come very quickly to the man who refuses to wait.
